

Federal grants will increase opportunities for teachers

Moorestown, NJ - Congressman John Adler today announced $954,136 in federal grant funds for the Moorestown Township School District. Over the course of five years, the grant secured through the Teaching American History Grants Program, will raise student achievement by increasing education opportunities for our teachers. Congressman Adler sent a letter to the Department of Education in support of the Moorestown School District earlier this year.

"New Jersey families pay too much in taxes and often don't get their fair share of federal dollars back," Congressman Adler said. "Today, Moorestown received well deserved support for middle class families, local teachers, and students."

The Literacy Fellowship will deepen our teachers' comprehension of traditional American history by providing them with knowledge and resources. Fellows will be given increased opportunities to learn about US history through the use of primary sources, the study of historical events, turning points, and interpretations of events by contemporary scholars.
